Description:

Walnut wood is considered the most noble and valuable of European native woods.

Walnut is a tree grown in vegetable gardens, boundaries or roads, both for fruit and for wood. Each tree grows in different conditions, which gives it characteristic and unique wood grain.

The sapwood is clear, pearly and heartwood has a wide range of colors ranging from light brown to dark, through metallic gray. The growth rings are clearly distinguished and has big vessels. It has an incredible glossy grain.

After brushing and sanding it feels soft, smooth, with a special touch that can be compared to ceramics.

Its wood is very appreciated in carpentry, furniture, especially for table tops
